Dulles Seeking United Front on West Berlin

Urges 'Common Action' If Necessary to Meet Threat From Soviet Union

Bonn —P— Sec. of State John Foster Dulles called today for the western allies to face down the Soviet attempt to force the allies out of West Berlin — "if need be by common action."

He said the allies must find a way to meet "the Soviet challenge to our rights in Berlin."

While he did not make clear what he meant by the word "action," it appeared he had force in mind.

As Dulles arrived here for talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, reliable diplomatic sources in Paris said the U. S. secretary and the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany will meet in the French capital March 15. Their main purpose will be to hear a report from British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan on his trip to Moscow.

These sources said an invitation to the Soviet Union to attend an east-west foreign ministers' meeting could come out of the Paris meeting of the western officials. Dulles talked over the March 15 meeting yesterday when he met with French President Charles de Gaulle.

Sees De Gaulle
The March meeting in Paris indicates the western powers will try for a meeting with the Soviets some time in April. This would closely follow the tenth anniversary meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Washington April 2.

The NATO members will get a fill-in on the proposed meetings next Wednesday when their council meets. NATO Secretary General Paul Henri Spaak met with Dulles during his stay in Paris.

The NATO council will also be called upon to approve the western replies to the Soviet note of Jan. 10 calling for a 28-nation conference to work out a German peace treaty. The western notes will reject the Soviet bid, diplomats said, but will officially spell out the west's willingness to hold a foreign ministers' meeting with the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France participating.

Agree on Approach
Diplomatic sources say that the west is agreed on the broad lines of an approach to the Soviet Union but vital details remain to be ironed out. Dulles looked hale and hearty as he arrived in Bonn for the last of his three consultations on his trip through Europe.

Adenauer, at the airport to meet him, said the allies "stand fast on principles" but are ready to talk about methods of dealing with the Soviet threat to Berlin. Dulles referred to his previous calls on British and French leaders and said that the methods of dealing with the Berlin situation are "still in the formative stage."

He said the chief task confronting the western allies was to concert their position to present a united front toward the Soviets.

Oppose Changes
In Water Laws
Stevens Point —P— Central Wisconsin vegetable growers expressed opposition to proposed changes in Wisconsin water laws here Friday.

About 200 growers who use irrigation discussed proposed legislation at a meeting sponsored by the Wisconsin Agricultural Water Conservation committee. They contend much of the proposed legislation would cripple their operation.

"We do not grow subsidized crops and we don't violate the law," Robert W. Williams, Stevens Point said, "but we must have legislation we can live with."

He said one of the bills proposed put growers accused of violation in the position of being guilty until proven innocent.

$465 Million Bill For Airports Wins Approval in Senate

Contrasts With $200 Million Bill Favored by President

Washington —P— The senate has passed a $465 million airport construction bill despite protests from some Republicans that it would punch a hole in President Eisenhower's budget and invite a veto.

The president, who vetoed a similar bill last year after congress had adjourned, had recommended only $200 million over the next four years for airport construction.

The measure passed last night by a 63-22 vote now goes to the house. No house hearings have been held on companion legislation.

(Both Wisconsin senators voted for the bill). The bill would extend the federal aid airport program for four years beyond June 30 and increase the annual federal allotments from $63 million to $100 million.

Discretionary Fund
In addition, it includes a special discretionary fund of $65 million that Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D - Okla.), chief sponsor of the bill, said was designed to speed the modernization of big-city airports to handle jet airplanes.

Under the program, the federal grants have to be matched dollar for dollar by the states.

All Republican efforts to cut the bill were defeated, but the Democrats made one concession in an effort to make the legislation more palatable to the administration.

The bill originally called for expenditures of $365 million over five years, but Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) won unanimous agreement to lop off one year and $100 million.

The measure was the second bill topping the president's budget recommendations to be passed in rapid-fire order by the senate. Only the night before it passed a $2,675,000,000 omnibus housing measure that exceeded Eisenhower's requests by more than a billion dollars.

In the argument over the impact of the airport and housing program on the precariously balanced budget for the coming fiscal year, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the senate has been committing "fiscal suicide on the installment plan."

Beirut, Lebanon —P— Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, wooed by both communists and Arab nationalists, apparently is facing a new political crisis with the reported resignation of six cabinet ministers.

Informants arriving from Baghdad yesterday said one of the six who quit was Foreign Minister Abdul Jabbar Jomard. The others were Fuad Rikabi, minister of state; Baba Ali, communications; Col. Nagy Taleb, social affairs; Saleh Mahmoud, health; and Seddik Sensehl, national guidance.

Under U.A.R. Pressure
The significance of the resignations was not immediately clear. Kassem has been under pressure from supporters of the United Arab Republic's President Nasser to strengthen ties with the U.A.R. and from communists to lean toward Moscow.

The communists are the largest and best organized political group in Iraq, and have gained considerable strength since Kassem took over in the revolution last July which overthrew the pro-western monarchy.

Kassem has declared that he wants to follow an independent nationalistic foreign policy without alliance with east or west.

If the resignations stick, Kassem will have to depend on leftists to help him run the government or abolish the civilian forms of government and proclaim a military dictatorship. So far he has shied away from assuming dictatorial powers.

There have been reports recently that Kassem is beginning to move against the leftists, but the six who resigned are believed to be anti-communist independents.

Record Investment
In Farm Surpluses
Washington —P— The federal government had more money invested in farm surpluses during January than it ever had before.

The exact total will not be known until final figures are tabulated at the end of this month, but the agriculture department yesterday reported the investment had topped $9 billion.

The record month under the price support program had been February, 1956, when $8,900,000,000 was invested.

On Jan. 1 of this year, the investment was $8,716,000,000, an increase of $455,000,000 during December.

British Deny They Snarled Proposals On Berlin Situation
London —P— Britain has asked the U. S. state department to keep the record straight on what it called the British are snarling allied plans against a Berlin blockade, the foreign office said today.

Sir Harold Caccia, British ambassador in Washington, went to the state department yesterday to voice British objection to these suggestions. He was received by U. S. Deputy Sec. of State Robert Murphy.

Caccia's move followed reports that the British were holding out against use of land force to push convoys through if the communists blockade Berlin.

These reports pictured the British as preferring to rely on an airlift.

After seeing Murphy, Ambassador Caccia told British correspondents in Washington "if there has been an impasse it has not been of our seeking for making."

Titan Missile Test Hailed as Success

90 Per Cent of Objectives Achieved, Air Force Says

Cape Canaveral, Fla. —P— The United States has launched its "second generation" missile program with the debut of the powerful Titan.

The new war rocket, shaped like a huge bullet, performed smoothly on a 220-mile limited range flight yesterday after failing to fly on two previous attempts. The air force said Friday's launching was highly successful. After its brief flight, the Titan fell into the Atlantic.

The blastoff of the intercontinental range ballistic missile signaled the start of an accelerated drive to produce advanced missiles superior to the present weapons in the U. S. arsenal.

9,000-Mile Range
Titan was developed as a follow-on series to the present Atlas which already has logged a 4½ ton orbiting satellite and one triumph over intercontinental range.

Some estimates place the Titan's range capability at 9,000 miles. The Atlas has a range of 6,300.

Still to come is the solid fuel Minuteman ICBM and various other so-called sophisticated missiles which the experts say will help close the gap with the Russians in the space race.

The Titan's backblast yesterday shattered several remote controlled tracking cameras near the launching pad.

The gold-tinted rocket weighs 110 tons. The range was short and the mission basic on this first test flight.

As soon as the missile left the launcher, 90 per cent of the test objectives were accomplished, it was learned.

These included testing ground support equipment, the launch controls and the performance of the first stage propulsion system.

The second stage was a dummy. It carried several thousand gallons of water for ballast in place of liquid fuel.

One year from now the project's scientists hope to have Titan ready for immediate retaliation action. The missile will be poised in underground launching sites remaining almost invulnerable to enemy counter-attack.

The Titan's improvements over Atlas feature less weight with more power and flexibility, rocket experts say.

U. S. to Borrow $1.5 Billion For Refinancing
Washington —P— The government is going to borrow $1.5 billion in new cash next week because of unexpected difficulties in refinancing part of the national debt.

The announcement by the treasury yesterday came as a surprise. Only a week ago treasury officials said they hoped to get by without such a borrowing until April.

The need for the new cash arose when the treasury offered new securities earlier this week in exchange for $14,872,000,000 in maturing securities.

But holders of $2,081,000,000 of the old securities rejected the offer and demanded payment in cash. This is known as attrition and officials said it was "somewhat heavier than expected."

Since the treasury doesn't have the cash on hand both to pay off these cash demands and safely meet the government's day-to-day obligations it is forced to borrow the new cash.

At the same time, some union officials yesterday approved the bill of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.). But Kennedy was qualified.

Kennedy, chairman of a senate labor subcommittee, said his group would consider both bills and any other labor control proposals behind closed doors Feb. 17.

At yesterday's open hearing, two spokesmen for the AFL-CIO said the Eisenhower bill "shows clear signs of having been drafted for political purposes rather than as a genuine attempt to cope with that corruption in the ranks of labor and management exposed by the McClellan committee's investigations."

Oswego, N. Y., Blanketed by New Snowfall

Oswego, N. Y. —P— A 10-inch snowfall overnight put this beleaguered city about half an inch from an all-time snowfall record.

The storm, whipped off Lake Ontario on 50-mile-an-hour winds, raised the snow on the ground to 23½ inches.

The fall for the season reached 159.7 inches, just short of the record 160.3 inches that plagued Oswego in the winter of 1925-26.

Up to 16 inches of new snow brought traffic to a standstill for a time in the area.

Autos Stalled
Scores of automobiles were abandoned. Police reported many accidents but no serious injuries.

Snow-covered roads prevented school buses from returning children to their homes late yesterday. Many children spent the night in school buildings and nearby homes.

Except for snow flurries, fair weather prevailed over the rest of the state.

The storm lifted in Oswego late in the evening. Gale force winds subsided. Generally fair skies and rather cold temperatures were forecast for the state.

Daniel F. Malan Dies in S. Africa

Capetown —P— Dr. Daniel F. Malan, author of much of South Africa's racial policy, died today after suffering a stroke.

The 84-year-old former editor and clergyman, who was the nation's prime minister from 1948 to 1954, defied a world-wide condemnation to enforce a policy of apartheid that he insisted was the traditional policy of South Africa since the first Dutch settlers arrived in Capetown.

Dr. Malan was the dominating voice for Afrikaner nationalism. Critics accused him at times of attempting to become a dictator after he rose to power in 1948.

Kidnaper Planned to Free Woman Before Police Closed in on Him

Fairfield, Calif. —P— A confessed kidnaper who reconstituted—too late—is in jail here on a kidnapping complaint after a desperate attempt to avoid capture.

All right, I'm guilty, took Mrs. Dawson at gunpoint Thursday midnight after trying to get $100,000 ready—Charles McArthur told reporters.

"I did it for money. . . You see, I got so tired of cow clipping. That's when you clip the hair off a cow so they can see the brand. I had tried to find a job for weeks. . ."

McArthur was captured early Friday morning after a 120 mile per hour chase over back country roads and U. S. Highway 40 midway between Sacramento and San Francisco.

In her husband's car with McArthur was Mrs. Hilda Faye Dawson, 65. John Dawson is a well-to-do chicken rancher at nearby Dixon.

McArthur, also of Dixon, took Mrs. Dawson at gunpoint Thursday midnight after trying to get $100,000 ready—Charles McArthur told reporters.

McArthur took Dawson's Chrysler and drove to a shack near Winters.

Around 5 a. m. he changed his mind. He gave Mrs. Dawson a dime to telephone her husband and said he was going to drop her off in Sacramento and lose himself in the crowd.

Dawson had worked himself loose and called for help. Highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies from four counties were patrolling the roads.

One spotted McArthur driving south and gave chase. Some 20 other cars joined in. McArthur reached the U. S. 40 freeway and roared toward Vacaville. The patrol cars, with officers shooting gingerly at McArthur's tires so as not to hit Mrs. Dawson, inched up and boxed him in.

He ground to a stop after crashing into the car blocking the way ahead.

"Bringing Her Home"
"What you guys all picking on me for?" he demanded. "All I was doing was bringing her back home."

Mrs. Dawson was treated for a cut from flying glass.

McArthur was booked for investigation of kidnapping. Solano County Dist. Atty. P. B. Lynch said he would ask the grand jury Tuesday to return a kidnapping indictment.

McArthur has a prison record for auto theft, officers said.

Inflation Seen In Vote Against Ike's Budget

Democratic Defiance Of Present Spending May Cause Debacle

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — An economic debacle is in the making. Both houses of congress took a step Wednesday that may hasten its coming. The American people may learn sooner than anybody has believed possible that a blunder was made in the election last November by giving the Democratic party control of congress.

If the budget is unbalanced the threat is that higher taxes for everybody will have to be enacted. And if the revenues to balance the higher spending begun by the Democrats are not to be collected by the government, then the American people are in for an era of inflation that could send the cost of living upward and eventually bring the dollar down to a 10-cent purchasing power. The weakness in the American dollar would have a far-reaching effect on the currencies of western nations.

The vote in the house and senate this week on the federal housing program is significant. It was a bold defiance of budget — balancing and an invitation to higher taxes. President Bice, LaCrosse, has said frankly Bice, LaCrosse, has written a bill which would permit cities to contract for public works up to $2,000 without public notice and bidding. The present limit for the award of contracts without bidding is $1,000.

Before the period of war and inflation the limit was $500. Bice said his bill takes into account the deflation of the value of the dollar and the fact that arranging for competitive bids on small contracts is a costly procedure for municipalities.

But a spokesman for an electrical contractors association testified against the measure at a committee hearing and the Green Bay Trades and Labor Council, in a letter to Sen. Leo O'Brien, Green Bay, chairman of the hearing committee, also flatly indicated its opposition.

Bice told the O'Brien committee that LaCrosse estimates a cost of $200 for the work involved in preparing a project for public bidding, besides some delay.

ment can borrow large sums while its tax receipts are down is because people have confidence in the ultimate capacity of the treasury to pay back what it borrows. Once this confidence is shaken and government bonds depreciate in value, the government has to pay higher and higher interest rates. The price of everything else goes up correspondingly.

The biggest worry in America is how long public confidence will stand up against the spending orgy that has now begun in congress. Doubtless labor unions will begin a new series of demands for higher wages if prices of the articles the workers buy start going up. It's an inflationary cycle of retaliation called the wage-price spiral.

Many countries in the world have had what is termed a runaway inflation. Before it reaches that stage, the argument is made that a collapse can't happen. Today there are many economists who are arguing that inflation has been stopped.

Ignore Balanced Budget. But what happened Wednesday is proof that, despite all the debate about how inflation is being held in check, an overwhelming majority of congress now votes to ignore the president's plea for a balanced budget and to plunge the country into more and more deficit spending.

An inflationary trend would make necessary even bigger spending to pay higher prices for the same armament planned many months ago.

This week was a critical one in American history, and the die seems to have been cast by the Democratic party in favor of inflation, which means a further devaluation of the purchasing power of the dollar.

State GOP to Meet June 6 at Green Bay

Madison — The Wisconsin Republicans will hold their annual convention at Green Bay June 6.

The Republican party of Wisconsin executive committee, meeting here Friday, also decided to hold a $100 a plate fund raising dinner at the Milwaukee auditorium June 12.

The keynote speaker at the dinner will be Sen. Harry Goldwater (R-Ariz.). A national committeewoman and a committeewoman from Wisconsin will be nominated at the Green Bay convention. Delegates to the national presidential convention elect these officers but usually follow the off-year convention recommendations.

Claude Jasper, GOP state chairman, said the committee also mapped plans for an intensive house-to-house campaign between now and the 1960 elections to help rebuild the party in the state.

At the request of LaCrosse, and with the backing of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, Sen. Raymond C. Eisenhower has said frankly Bice, LaCrosse, has written a bill which would permit cities to contract for public works up to $2,000 without public notice and bidding. The present limit for the award of contracts without bidding is $1,000.

GOP Floor Leader Against High Spending

Assemblyman Blanchard Believes Inflation Is Nations' Top Enemy

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The thin, thoughtful young man pondered as the interviewer asked for a summary of his political views.

"First of all, I believe we have too much government. We're spending ourselves into trouble in this country. It's our job as politicians to convince the people of the problem.

No Doubt

Thus spoke Assemblyman David Blanchard, a 38-year-old Edgerton lawyer and comparative newcomer to the capital who surprised politicians and observers when he was chosen recently as the floor leader of the Republican minority caucus in the state assembly.

Blanchard permits no doubt about his position. He is a conservative. He intends, as quarterback of the reduced Republican group in the assembly, to oppose high spending and taxing trends. Spending and inflation, he believes, were the principal reasons for the defeat of the Republicans in the elections last fall.

The issue of state spending is a part — if only a small one — of a national economic problem, the legislative leader says.

The big and looming issue in world affairs is the increasingly hard economic competition with Soviet Russia. If American inflation continues, worries Blanchard, America will "price itself out of the market. We won't be able to beat the Russians. The dollar will become so cheap that we'll lose the economic battle."

Pay-As-You-Go Reduced to practical legislative terms, Blanchard says his viewpoint calls for continued support of a pay-as-you-go taxation policy.

Proposals for a state withholding tax law, he said, disguise the desire to soften the effect of tax increases and to reduce the opposition to higher spending. He is also chary of the debt proposals of the Democratic state administration.

Blanchard's views add up to the probability of a militant and attentive opposition to the new Democratic regime on the fiscal measures which will dominate the legislature, now settling down to serious work.

1,590 Airplanes Registered in '58

Madison — The number of registered aircraft in the state is steadily increasing.

The total for the current fiscal year is 1,590, according to the annual report of the state department of aeronautics. Under the law the state registration fee is paid in lieu of the personal property tax.

During the last year the department processed nearly 1,900 airplanes for registration, showing some turn-over in the craft owned by Wisconsin individuals and business corporations. Fees collected aggregated $37,244.

Says Co-ops To be Backed By Governor

John K. Kyle Expects Support For Milk Marketing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Farm cooperatives should be pleased with political developments in the state capital this winter, one of their chief lobbyists reported here today.

John K. Kyle, secretary and lobbyist for the Wisconsin Association of Cooperatives, told members in a legislative bulletin that two "long-time friends of cooperatives" will command the two agricultural committees of the legislative houses and also reported glowingly on Gov. Gaylord Nelson's proposal to have the state government back the campaign for the formation of a new national milk marketing cooperative.

The WAC has been pressing for such a national marketing organ for several years. Kyle noted that Nelson wants to "put the full force of the state government back of the program."

Friendly Chairman The reference to the friendly chairmen of the agricultural committees who will shepherd major agricultural and farm-related bills this winter was to Sen. J. E. Leverich of Sparta and Assemblyman John Pritchard of Eau Claire.

Leverich is one of the celebrated Republican "mavericks" in the upper house, and Pritchard returned to the lower house this year as a Democrat after many years of previous service as a Republican.

He had also held the agricultural committee chairmanship previously.

Kyle's current newsletter also remarks critically about proposals in Washington for new tax legislation that he said are hostile to cooperatives, and that he claims are sponsored by the U.S. treasury department.

State May Make Credit Rules Easier

Democrats Propose Pool to Benefit Low-Capital Firms

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Democrats in the legislature will probably make a dramatic bid for the favorable regard of the small businessman and manufacturer by proposing the creation of a state-financed credit corporation to provide risk capital for smaller enterprises.

Sen. Henry Maier, Democratic floorleader in the state senate, disclosed today plans for legislation that would provide a credit pool, either through direct state loans or a form of state insurance of private loans, for the benefit of business under-financed which cannot get the operating capital needed for expansion.

Such a plan would require an amendment of the state constitution. Under present constitutional law, the state is restrained from engaging in "works of internal improvement."

Maier in an interview here declared his belief that the state will find it more practicable to encourage the expansion of existing Wisconsin businesses than to try to lure businessmen to relocate their enterprises here.

Drying Up He said his explorations have convinced him that risk capital is "drying up" for many smaller businessmen who have legitimate expansion plans and find that ordinary commercial credit avenues are for all practical purposes closed to them.

He said he and other legislators are studying similar state credit corporations set up in Maine and Pennsylvania, under Democratic regimes, and a highly successful New York state program dating from a Republican administration there.

Maier said he has discussed the idea with Gov. Nelson, but he did not comment on the governor's reaction to it.

The state division of industrial development several years ago encouraged the formation of a cooperative credit corporation, on a quasi-public basis, with the collaboration of the Wisconsin Bankers association. Appeals for the subscription of capital stock were indifferently received, however, and the state division — a part of the governor's office — has not mentioned the project in its recent reports.

Nelson Promises Free Hand for Tax Studies

Milwaukee — Gov. Gaylord Nelson said yesterday that committees that will make a tax impact study will have "an absolute free hand" to recommend programs to raise additional revenue to meet the state's needs.

A tax impact study committee composed of four University of Wisconsin professors will make the preliminary report and a citizens committee will analyze it and make final recommendations.

The governor said that he probably wouldn't agree with the recommendations 100 per cent but "if they submit a tax structure that doesn't actually shock me, I'll approve it."

He spoke at a meeting of the Citizens Governmental Research bureau.

Nelson's Appointees Indicate His Policy

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Two appointments to state office probably show no more about the prospects for a state administration than a pair of swallows prove about summer.

But Gov. Nelson's first two nominations to administrative offices, both of them conspicuous and important, are suggestive of the kind of appointments policy he is likely to pursue.

They are provocative also because it is clear that after a quarter of a century of waiting there are plenty of job-hungry Democrats who would fill these and other places eagerly if extended an invitation.

The governor now has named what are, on the record, non-partisan men to head the motor vehicle department, one of the giant administrative agencies, and to occupy the sensitive seat on the public service commission, a quasi-judicial agency, that was made vacant when a Republican appointee recently and correctly surmised he could not be reappointed.

James Karns, the new motor vehicle commissioner, is a 33-year-old professional traffic patrolman. There is nothing to show that partisan considerations obtained in his selection. Indeed, as some of the capitol reporters have gleefully recounted, his father is the Republican sheriff of Dunn county.

THE MEN As far as can be seen, Nelson didn't want to put a mere job-holder in the motor vehicle spot, and didn't want to re-name the man who had held the job. He simply looked around to find the ablest and most promising of the neutral candidates available.

There is a certain risk involved in such selections, for quite obviously the governor cannot know much about the man he is choosing. But other governors, when they thought they were on the spot, did the same thing. Gov. Rennebohm a decade ago was fond of doing just that in order to avoid choosing among the clamorous of the political candidates.

The nomination of Prof. Martin Glaeser of the University economics faculty to the utilities regulation commission is somewhat different, in the sense that the governor pointedly recounted the professor's association with liberal thinkers and causes in the power field.

But Prof. Glaeser would not be recognized as a Democrat in any current Wisconsin Democratic caucus. He may very well be a Democrat, as so Wilbur Drews, Levan Toepke, and Evan Redemann.

Nominations will be made for president now held by the Democratic machine Frank Smith; assessor, Leon Allie; justice of the peace, R. F. Schlee; clerk, Russell uished man. He has taught Kapitzyk; county supervisor, generations of students the Edwin Sader; and trustees, fundamentals of utility eco-Arthur Hahn, A. B. # Police Sergeant Gets His Revenge

Glen Burnie, Md., — Police Sgt. Leroy Voltrath, who works the "graveyard" shift, had been in bed only an hour or so when the telephone rang.

An attorney on the line said it was imperative he speak to him so Mrs. Voltrath reluctantly woke her husband. When he learned the call dealt with a minor accident he had investigated, Voltrath asked:

"Don't you realize I worked all night?"

"Of course," said the lawyer, "but don't you realize that this is my working day?"

Voltrath hung up in anger. At 3 a.m. next morning, he phoned the attorney.

"This is Sgt. Voltrath," he said. "This is my working day. Now what did you want to know about that accident?"

Kingston Trio Got Fame for 'Tom Dooley'

Started Careers as Folk Singers on College Campuses

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood—P. Three fresh-faced young men stepped up to the microphone. They were dressed identically in Ivy league pants and open-necked striped shirts. They plunked two guitars and a banjo and started crooning: "Hang down yer head, Tom Dooley."

Fourth of Series

lum loosed a roar of approval. "Pore boy, you're goin' to."

The song was finished, and the cheers shook the great hall. This was the signal of acceptance for three bright fellows who are riding the teenage music boom to early fortunes.

They are Dave Guard, Bob Shane and Nick Reynolds, who call themselves the Kingston Trio. The name is an accident.

"We started out when the calypso craze was on, so it sounded like a good idea."

Despite their hit with the backwoods ballad of the doomed Dooley, they are not hillbillies. Dave and Bob grew up in Honolulu, and Nick is from Coronado, Calif.

Fans who are expecting a folksy trio of cornballers will get a jolt. The boys' ballads are interspersed with offbeat chatter that drops such names as Goethe and John Foster Dulles. One of their favorite numbers is a bitter fugue about how man may end it all now that he has the mushroom-shaped cloud.

How did the Kingstons crack to the top of a music market that puts little emphasis on musical or intellectual quality?

"Dooley" did it. "The teenagers buy single records, and they made it a hit," explained Guard, chief Kingstonian. "So far it has sold 1,800,000 here and about the same in England. We're just as amazed as anyone."

Perhaps it was the twanging of the guitars, the simple, haunting melody and the mournful message—standard features of today's record hits. At any rate, the boys scarcely have time to analyze; they're too busy with a career that began by chance scarcely 18 months ago.

They got together at Palo Alto. All were business students. Dave at Stanford university and Bob and Nick at nearby Menlo college. Dave and Bob were chums from Hawaii, where they had strummed ukeleles to island tunes. The trio began playing their guitars and banjos and chanting folk tunes in campus hangouts.

Their act was seen by San

In Business for Keeps

"Dooley" was one of the album songs. They had picked it up from a hapless auditioner in a San Francisco night club. Disc jockeys started playing it, prompting Capitol to issue the single. Whammo!

Being level-headed lads, they are seeking ways to sustain their earnings and careers. They have used their business educations to devise means to spread their income, which averages $1,750 per night date. They know the teenagers are fickle, so they are broadening their audience with appearances all over the nation, especially at colleges.

When Sun Goes Down, Jazz Group Comes Out

Greater New Haven Outfit Swings Out With Dixieland Just for Fun

New Haven, Conn.—"Those fellows are musicians at heart and you can hardly find that kind anymore . . . they got the beat and that's what counts."

Jazz artist Cliff Jackson was talking about a group called The Greater New Haven Jazz association, which swings out with Dixieland for fun and no profit.

Jackson—who has sat in with them—thinks these cats are cool. And they are: But in the daylight you might never know it to meet them.

Take Benji Gaillard for an example. He's president of the association. If you met him during the day he'd probably shake your hand and listen to your money problems. Benjamin T. Gaillard, Jr., in daylight and a 3-button suit, is assistant treasurer of the Union and New Haven Trust company.

Then there's Steve Dunn. He plays a soprano sax so that if you closed your eyes you'd swear it was Sidney Bechet. That's when he swings. But when he works you'd probably close your eyes and grimace. Dr. H. Lincoln Dunn is a New Haven dentist.

Dunn had much to do with founding the association. He has been extending his practice closer to New York over the years so that he could visit the jazz haunts there and sit in with such pros as Red Allen, Buster Bailey, Eddie Condon and Russell Moore.

His enthusiasm for jazz began one football afternoon 30 years ago at Harvard when he strode along with the university band between halves and belted out the unscheduled "Tiger Rag." It didn't go over big with the faculty but Dunn has been big with his friends ever since.

The organization is a private, non-profit club formed to provide, for people interested in jazz, an opportunity to hear the real thing inexpensively and conveniently.

The real thing is presented by such local personalities as Carleton W. Blanchard, president of Wyatt, Inc.; Tom Thibault, vice president of Connecticut Coke; Bud Finch, an early morning New Haven disc jockey; Bill Winnick, a local insurance salesman; Sherman Drutman, a former state senator.

Also included at the swinging sessions are an aircraft engineer, a factory foreman, a tobacco salesman, and a delicatessen businessman who hits the drums.

The association was officially formed two years ago when the audiences grew too big for the sessions which were held in private homes over a 10-year period.

The New Haven association is much like the famed New Orleans club. However, it costs but $5 to join the New Haven club. There are now almost 100 members.

Guest Stars Hired The group also hires guest stars to sit in with them and spark them to a maximum performance. The jam sessions are held at the Town Ho club in Milford. The club's hall is turned over to them for nothing.

Jackson—like Buck Clayton who preceded him as a guest star—thinks the association has some real musicians. After one recent session he said:

"Man, I'm coming back here even if they don't invite me. This was the greatest."

He Has What It Takes For Film 'Billionaire'

Hollywood—P. Millionaire playboy Francisco (Baby) Pignatari has been signed as technical director for a movie called "The Billionaire."

The Brazilian metals magnate will also have a small part in the film. He will play a billionaire, producer Jerry Wald said.

Sen. Proxmire on the Food Surplus

Sen. Proxmire recently announced he will offer a "food for peace" bill in the senate. The idea of using our food surplus to build good will with other nations is not new. Almost everyone in the United States has thought about it, but efforts to give away American food surpluses have sometimes created more problems than they have solved.

Thus when Sen. Proxmire says his plan is "economically sound, diplomatically wise and morally compelling" his statement should be compared with that of President Eisenhower when he told congress that he is asking other surplus-producing nations to join with the United States in studying practical means of utilizing surplus agricultural products in the interest of "re-enforcing peace and the well-being of friendly nations throughout the world — in short, using food for peace."

The president as well as anyone else recognizes the incongruous and tragic situations of mountainous food surpluses in America while in distant parts of the world there often is hunger and sometimes starvation. Yet the efforts of the United States to give some of its surpluses to the needy in other countries often has run into trouble. If we send food supplies to a nation in need we are in danger of ruining the market for food producers of that area. Those producers, unable to sell, find themselves facing the same problem as the American farmers did when they produced the stuff and then had no market. Their governments then are in trouble and quickly demand that America stop "dumping" its food.

The most successful food distribution so far has been handled by the several religious groups. Church groups have their own representatives on the ground where the food is to be consumed. They are able to place it directly in the hands of the needy. The markets of the receiving countries are not hurt because the recipients of the food are people who are unable to buy.

Under the Proxmire proposal the surplus goods might be paid in wages to workers on public works programs. Thus, the employed persons who might be expected to buy for their families with their wages would be lost as consumers of the locally produced food. The same old outcry against dumping would almost certainly follow.

There is no doubt whatever that Sen. Proxmire is perfectly right in trying to find a way to get some of our great piles of food into the hands of the undernourished and hungry. President Eisenhower has the same goal but with caution born of experience he is proceeding more slowly.

During the past four years the United States has managed to get over $4 billion worth of surplus farm products into the hands of friendly nations with food scarcities. Much of this distribution has been through special export programs. But obviously the amount is not enough to solve our problem. The great trouble with our surpluses has been, and still remains, that we can't even give the stuff away.

We don't think Sen. Proxmire has made much of a contribution to the solution of this problem. But the thing he is trying to do is so obviously right that there must be some way of doing it and we should keep trying to find that way.

The Tenure Law in State Colleges

The recent state supreme court decision that the Board of Regents of State Colleges acted illegally in firing or upholding the firing of a teacher with tenure at Wisconsin State College at Superior is based partly upon technicalities. But it points up a flaw in the Wisconsin statutes.

By statute, a teacher at a state college who has taught four years has tenure and thereafter cannot be dismissed "except for cause" based upon lack of "efficiency and good behavior." In case a teacher is to be dismissed, there must be written charges presented and he may then demand a hearing before the board of regents, "whose action and decision in the matter shall be final." This was overturned by the 4-3 decision of the court which in effect made the courts the body with the final word.

The University of Wisconsin at Madison and at Milwaukee are bound by no such statute. Teachers who have lapsed into inefficiency or have become trouble-makers or are not regarded as good teachers by their superiors may be dismissed. The universities, in general, subscribe to the regulations of the American Association of University Professors which advises care, but the final authority still is the university superior. There have been no charges of lack of "academic freedom" at either university.

But at the state colleges, the tenure law, understandably enacted to protect teachers from whims or personal recriminations by those in authority, actually handicaps the growth of the colleges in two ways. First, the primary concern of the state colleges, again by statute, is to turn out teachers for schools in Wisconsin. With the recent decision of the state supreme court, it will be a long time before a president decides upon dismissal for mediocre teaching. And this in a decade when the emphasis is upon raising the standards of teachers and teachers' colleges!

Secondly, if a college president has any doubts about a teacher who has been teaching for three years, he will be apt to dismiss him at that time rather than give him a chance to grow in his profession and perhaps become a more able teacher. After four years a president will hesitate to move toward dismissal unless the teacher in question commits a felony.

In the light of the decision in the Superior case, and regardless of what happens in one now brewing at Stout, the tenure law should be carefully studied. If possible those required to act under the law should have something more specific than the present vague terms "for cause" and "inefficiency", or "during good behavior" to guide them.

If such guidance cannot be provided, is there any good reason why the rule which has worked so successfully in the university should not be applied to the state colleges?

The Highway Traffic Toll

Because highway safety work is a tire-some, thankless task, the people engaged in it need encouragement; for that reason it is always pleasant to take note of their success.

Last year there were 37,000 persons killed in traffic accidents in the United States. This is a huge number. It represents the population of a fair sized city. But it is actually 1,700 lower than the figure for 1957, and the figure for that year was approximately 900 below the total of 39,628 in 1956. Thus, there has been a 2-year saving of 2,628 lives and that again is no less than the population of some very important little cities throughout the country.

The total of 37,000 for this year compares favorably with the 35,586 deaths in 1954 and that, it may be noted, was the lowest for any year since 1950. The record toll for the nation is 39,969 set in 1941. The variations in these figures indicate quite clearly that the outcome for any year can be altered by a number of factors. It is not improbable that the important factor is the work of the thousands of people throughout the nation engaged in the promotion of safety.

In spite of the fact the use of motor vehicles has increased steadily, the accident record indicates the number of deaths last year was 4 per cent under the figure for 1957 and 7 per cent less than that in 1956. Thus the council is able to claim a sustained improvement in the accident toll in recent years. Credit is given in the report to the cooperation of an aroused public over the needless toll of death and destruction on the streets and highways. A more important figure than that given for the number of dead is perhaps the 1-300,000 persons who suffered crippling injuries during the past year. The total cost including property destruction, wage loss, medical expense, the overhead cost of insurance has been put at $5,400,000,000.

Any way a person can be prevailed upon to look at it, the safety work of the police departments, safety councils and the hundreds of others engaged in this task is well worth doing.

High Court Proposal Has Merit

From The Janesville Gazette

Tampering with court organization or selection of judges always is touchy, but this of itself should not bar consideration of plans which hold possibilities of improvement.

One interesting plan is that submitted to the legislature by Sen. Clifford Krueger of Merrill relating to a radically changed method of election of supreme court justices. Sen. Krueger proposes that in place of the statewide election of justices for 10-year terms, a regional court setup be provided. His plan, which would require amendment of the constitution, would divide the state into seven judicial districts, with a justice to be elected from each one.

Two immediate advantages come to mind under the plan. One is that the cost of a statewide campaign for the supreme court has become so great that lawyers or lower court judges hesitate to take the gamble. Since there are few or no issues in a court campaign, it consists usually of becoming acquainted statewide, a time consuming and expensive matter. The same job, limited to one region of the state, would be less exhausting.

The second possibility is that residents of one region of the state might find it easier to know or learn about candidates from their own area. Judicial candidates from far corners of the state may escape the close observation that would be given them closer to home.

Belgium Aided Its Sons Who Had Emigrated

BY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent News Service

The tragically tardy rains of Oct. 9, 1871, halted the devastation of northeastern Wisconsin but they also emphasized new dangers.

Rudolph is a fire-ravaged wilderness with no place to go and little more protection than the clothes they wore. Everything was gone — homes, food, jobs, in some cases even the very land on which they had lived had been burned away.

Public reaction to their plight, however, was as prompt and generous as it was surprising in a country that never had faced such a crisis before. In the days immediately after the fires attention was fixed on Chicago's disaster, but as news spread of what had happened in the northern forests help began to pour in.

Relief Started

Although the United States had little previous experience in handling great natural disasters and such agencies as the Red Cross were not yet in existence, a vast relief program was improvised. Whether it was because the recent Civil war had given people some practical know-how or whether it was because those on the scene were used to taking care of themselves under pioneer conditions, that program was remarkably successful.

Almost before the smoke had cleared over Peshtigo and the Door peninsula local relief efforts were afoot in Green Bay, Marinette-Menominee, Oconto and cities of the Fox valley. Soon local committees were functioning at nearly every crossroad in Wisconsin.

It quickly became obvious, however, that local and state resources were inadequate and Gov. Lucius Fairchild called for help. It came almost immediately and kept coming until the relief agencies had to yell halt.

Aid From Belgium

Purses that had already opened to help Chicago were opened again, and contributions of money and supplies rolled in from all over the nation. Every state east of the Rockies donated, far off California wired money, and even Europe kicked in. Belgium, especially, remembered the sons and daughters who had deserted her for America.

Slowly at first, then in steadily increasing volume the flood poured in. Isolated wagon loads became carloads and finally full trains. As many as 15 trains arrived at Green Bay in one day at the height of activity. Supplies of every description threatened to swamp the small receiving communities, which had to create facilities as they went along. It was done with startling efficiency.

Committees

In a short time efforts were coordinated. Two central relief committees were set up, one in Green Bay and the other in Milwaukee, and the devastated region divided between them. These committees received and accounted for all supplies and money and organized their distribution and use.

Volunteers sorted arriving supplies, repaired items when necessary and issued what was requested. The women of Green Bay took over two new store buildings, set up shop and worked around the clock for weeks processing the avalanche of clothing.

The central committees had surveys made of the stricken areas and issued appeals for specific needs. They also bought on the open market when they couldn't get supplies any other way.

The survivors, used to shifting for themselves, were willing and capable of building their own shelter when they had the necessary tools. These were provided, and everyone pitched into a co-operative effort. Before winter set in all had rough shelter. It wasn't very fancy but was probably as good and maybe even better than many of them had known in their pioneer beginnings.

Hike Inland

The immediate requirements were food, shelter and treatment for the sick and injured. Supplying them was fairly easy at Peshtigo but a real job on the peninsula, whose population was scattered over an area deficient in communications.

Boats were sent along the bayshore and men landed with medicines and cooked food to hike inland with supplies on their backs. These first rescue parties made surveys of conditions and their reports were the basis of relief committee planning.

Clothing was not much of a problem. It came from all over the United States, was sorted, mended and issued. The army contributed 4,000 blankets, 1,500 overcoats and a like number of towels, jackets and trousers.

Some of the contributions would have been laughable if the situation had been less serious or the intentions of the givers less sincere. One box, from the ladies of a fashionable New York hotel, contained dainty kid gloves and slippers, embroidered underclothing, ribbons and laces. Another from Philadelphia had a brocade silk gown that must have cost when new several hundred dollars.

Baby Layettes

The daintiest baby apparel — little crocheted stockings, frilly gowns and the tiniest and most expensive shoes — was common. One woman contributed the entire layette of her long dead baby, white and frilled and perfumed, just as it had been carefully laid away years before.

Manufacturers of every type of staple goods sent liberal contributions. There were cottons and woolsens, boots, shoes, underclothes, bedding, mattresses, axes and helves, shovels, finished woodenware of all kinds, hay forks — just about everything conceivable and all of it badly needed.

Ironically, the one critical item that should have been the easiest to procure in Wisconsin — lumber — turned out to be the hardest to get. Most of the sawmills had exhausted their stocks of logs and closed for the season, while those still working were tied to contracts — many of them to supply the needs of Chicago. Committees bought what they could, some mills reopened, and gradually enough lumber was scraped together to meet minimum requirements.

Hospital Cases

Hospitals for the badly injured were set up in Green Bay's new Turner Hall and at Marinette, and doctors and nurses donated their services. The Green Bay infirmary was used only briefly but at Marinette 2-score victims of Peshtigo were still hospitalized months later. Surprisingly, relatively few of those who survived the horrors of the night of Oct. 8 subsequently died of their injuries.

Transportation costs would have been staggering, but railroads, shipping lines and trucking firms threw in their services, too. Everything labeled for disaster relief was moved free of charge.

A final filip was provided by Gen. Phil Sheridan who sent 200,000 army rations of hard bread, beans, bacon, dried beef, port, rice, tea, coffee and condiments. He also added an unexpected and slightly embarrassing bonus of 100 army escort wagons, complete with tarpaulin covers, spare parts, tools and full sets of regulation harness.

Issued Intact

The agencies were stumped momentarily by the latter but disposed of them by requiring that they be issued intact. Anyone who applied for a vehicle or a set of harness had to take a complete outfit whether he wanted all of it or not.

Charlie Robinson of the Green Bay Advocate was a trifle caustic about those wagons, but as a Civil war veteran he should have known better. Army quartermasters, saddled with warehouses full of war surpluses, weren't going to miss such an opportunity to get some of the stuff off their paper.

It was a long, hard job but by tremendous effort the crisis was met and everyone provided for. Frank Tilton, Green Bay, in his account of the disaster published in 1872, wrote that by Feb. 1 aid had been given to 1,534 families of 7,187 persons. By midwinter, he reported, all the fire victims were tolerably comfortable and free from the twin dangers of freezing and starvation.

Here's New Profession: Forensic Medicine

BY LYNN POOLE
Producer John Hopkins File 7

A man suspected of murder stood up to face a judge in a courtroom, and heard himself pronounced guilty of murder in the first degree. Later the judge said this vicious killer would not have been caught, nor convicted had it not been for the work of a specialist in forensic medicine — the courtroom doctor.

Dead men don't talk, but physical clues they leave behind speak for them. These clues can be investigated by the doctor who is trained to apply his medical knowledge to the apprehension and conviction of persons who commit crimes of violence.

Dr. Russell S. Fisher, chief medical examiner for the State of Maryland, and lecturer in forensic medicine at Johns Hopkins University, recently stated that the demand for medical men trained in crime detection is advancing so swiftly that jobs cannot be filled. At the moment there are a number of positions unfilled which pay $25,000, and many more paying at least $15,000.

An Example
The demand has been created by the success forensic medical men have had in leading police to suspects, and then scientifically finding physical evidence which convicts the criminal.

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Feb. 5, 1949

Leonard Warner, agricultural instructor at Appleton Vocational school, was to leave Sunday for Minneapolis to attend a veterinary school.

George E. Johnson, Appleton, was appointed chairman of the committee of examiners for funeral directing and embalming of the state board of health.

W. Beverly Murphy, Appleton, was awarded a medal for merit that week for outstanding service in aiding the United States during the prosecution of the war.

State Sen. Gordon A. Bulboz, Appleton, was to speak about the legislative council of the state legislature and its program during a noon luncheon meeting of Neenah club.

Mrs. William Stilp was re-elected president of the Social Aid Society of Emmanuel Evangelical United Brethren church and Mrs. Nic Zylstra was re-elected vice president. Mrs. Gordon Haase was new secretary and Mrs. Louis Peotter, treasurer.

hind speak for them. These clues can be investigated by the doctor who is trained to apply his medical knowledge to the apprehension and conviction of persons who commit crimes of violence.

Dr. Russell S. Fisher, chief medical examiner for the State of Maryland, and lecturer in forensic medicine at Johns Hopkins University, recently stated that the demand for medical men trained in crime detection is advancing so swiftly that jobs cannot be filled. At the moment there are a number of positions unfilled which pay $25,000, and many more paying at least $15,000.

The demand has been created by the success forensic medical men have had in leading police to suspects, and then scientifically finding physical evidence which convicts the criminal.

A recent example is the case of a man picked up by police in an eastern city. In his pocket he had a few cents in change, a package of cigarettes, and a match folder from a town 1,600 miles away. The police checked with the town 1,600 miles away and learned that a murder had been committed during a bank hold-up. The suspect complained of an earache, was examined by the doctor who found in the suspect's dirty ear a large piece of ear wax which was scientifically investigated in the crime laboratory. The ear wax contained pollen from a flower which bloomed profusely in the park across the street from the bank. Scientific crime specialists in both cities worked together and found six bits of evidence which placed the suspect at the scene of crime at the time it was committed. This scientific evidence convicted him.

In a midwestern city a severed human head was found in a trash can in an alley. Within three hours other dismembered parts of the body were found within a radius of two miles. A friend identified the body. Another friend of the deceased was picked up. He had a motive — and had no alibi. Police searched his room and found a bloody, torn shirt belonging to the corpse. The crime lab and medical specialists went to work. They did two things. By irrefutable methods proved that the suspect was innocent; they also led the police to the real criminal who was eventually sentenced to death—again on scientifically supported evidence, plus the suspect's final admission of guilt.

Many Other Cases
Thousands of examples can be cited which occur each year to prove the contributions being made to criminal investigation by men who receive premedical training in college, earn their medical degrees, then turn their abilities to the swiftly growing science of forensic medicine.

$130,000 Addition to Be Built at Thilmany

Permit Issued to Dick Oudenhoven For Office Space

Kaukauna — A building permit to construct a $130,000 office building addition atop an existing warehouse was issued Friday to the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company by Lothar Kemp, building inspector.

The permit is only the second issued this year. Dick Oudenhoven is general contractor for the work which will start as soon as weather permits and be completed sometime this year. A fibre glass duct in the acoustical tile ceiling will provide more uniform distribution of heat and air-conditioning. Windows will be of solar grey glass to cut down on sun rays and heat infiltration. The roof will be of pre-cast concrete and steel joist construction.

Sales and service offices will be concentrated in the addition which will provide space for about 60 persons. Beautiful New Living Space is being added to one of Appleton's finest old homes by materials from Standard Manufacturing company, 1012 N. Lawe street, as a barroom and recreation room take over an unusual section of the basement. Warm, rich cherry plywood cover the walls and all trim is solid cherry, while the ceiling is Armstrong's cushion tone acoustical tile. Shelves and storage room are built in the section on the right. Beyond the louvered bar room gates on the left is the custom built three-angled bar of solid cherry with white and gold sequined top. The bar is lined with stainless steel, has running water and a locked liquor cabinet. These rooms were designed and built by Fred Heepner Sons. Many unused portions of your home could be put to use, according to Standard Manufacturing company. Let Standard know your needs and call them at RE 3-7373 for an early estimate.

Does your house have a bad case of handdrums after the holiday season? Do one or two rooms need a little face lifting? Does your family need an extra room to stretch out their elbows once in a while? The Standard Manufacturing company suggests that this is a good time to be thinking about an addition to your home or remodeling a room to make extra living space for you and your family.

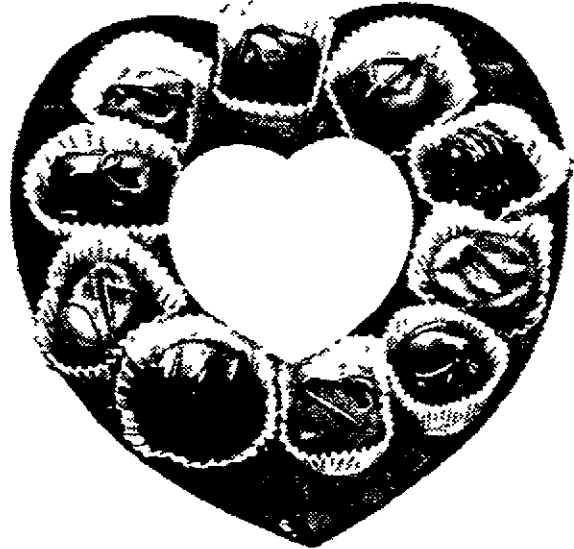

A new wall paneling has types of millwork items they been introduced by Standard will make built-ins for you that they say is easy to put kitchen, windows, doors up and less expensive than trim, bars, bookcases, louver conventional plywood. "Watch the Birdie" Contest is bringing hundreds of families into Ford dealer showrooms in search of the snap shot which will win a triple grand prize — a '59 Ford, $10,000 cash, and a paid all-family vacation. Dick Deutman of Sherry Motors said today that the Appleton showroom is open for shutter-bugs until 9 o'clock every evening. The simple rules of the contest which runs through March 15 include getting an entry blank and taking a picture with a Ford car in a Ford dealer showroom. The picture above shows Walter Brennan, entering with his TV family. "The Red" McCalls' Appleton families can pose at Sherry Motors in a Custom 300, Fairlane, Galaxie convertible or S-liner, or in the Thunderbird, America's most wanted car, Deutman said.

Bowlby's Candies Busy Filling Hearts for Valentine Giving

Valentine's day is the time many men think of giving candy to their mothers, wives or sweethearts. The Bowlby Candy company has a big selection of fresh, delicious candy in a variety of assortments. Here in the factory everything is so clean and neat that any housewife would be proud to call the kitchen her own by the best assortment, paper And through the air is the heart boxes with Bowlby's continual, delicious odor of regular assortment of choco-cooking candy that makes lates, the milk chocolate heart any chocolate lover almost box filled with Bowlby's best go out of his mind. The store room is piled high with boxes and boxes of Valentine's candies. Always available are Bowlby's "doodles" and the Wisconsin assortment.

Bowlby's Candies is a regular bee-hive of activity these days at the factory, 1624 E. Wisconsin avenue. Here 27 men and women have the job that every child dreams of longingly — making candy. This is no stir-a-pan-of-fudge - over - the - kitchen-stove operation, but a real honest - to - goodness factory where chocolates and creams and caramels are turned out with personal care by the thousands.

On a tour with Byron (Bumps) Bowlby, owner and manager, you can see huge ing is done, several large copper pots line up like kettle drums, waiting for the ingredients to be added. Those candies which have to be stirred continually are done so by giant mixers that are electrically driven. There is a vacuum cooker for creams which can turn out 400 pounds an hour. A new forty-foot dipping machine is on its way to Bowlby's which will dip a ton of candy a day, cool it in an air conditioned tube and have it ready to pack by the time it gets to the end.

Some dipping is still done by hand and the nimble fingers of the two girls on the job move through the dark rich substance, expertly covering each little confection. Packing of the candy is either done at long narrow tables where the packer walks up and down the length, or at the ferris wheel. This is a large spinning apparatus where the operator can stand in one place and the candy revolves slowly in front of her as she packs her boxes.

Some of the candy is packaged in plastic bags and heat sealed for freshness and cleanliness. There are 175 varieties of candies at all times at Bowlby's. With the expanded facilities of the new factory at 1624 E. Wisconsin avenue, they are better able to suit your needs. The two College avenue stores are at 125 E. College, and 308 W. College.

In Good Taste Woman in Business Has Problem

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a woman executive in a large company, and very often it is necessary for me to take men customers to lunch. The men always seem embarrassed to have me pay the check and often try to pick it up themselves. This creates a very awkward situation. Can you offer a solution to this problem?

Answer: Usually companies open accounts in several restaurants so that their executives can sign when the waiters present their bills. As your company has not done this, the best thing is to say as you pay the check, "You are my company's guest, and this goes on my expense account."

Let News Spread

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how a broken engagement is handled with the least possible embarrassment to my daughter. My daughter's engagement was announced two months ago and three weeks later her fiancé decided to call the whole thing off. Needless to say my daughter is very much upset.

Answer: If it was announced in a newspaper then a notice would be sent to them saying, "The engagement of Miss Sara Black and Mr. John Doe has been broken by mutual consent." If it wasn't announced in the papers, the least embarrassing thing to do would be for your daughter to tell her most intimate friends and let the news spread.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to take a first cruise, alone. I know that I shall be put at a table with other people in the dining room, and I am wondering if I should introduce myself to them and, if so, just how do I go about it?

Answer: You may simply say to your table companions, "I'm Mary Smith," or if you prefer, you may ask your cruise director to introduce you.

Economy-Minded Mom Shrinks Budget

groceries that upset the budget and the lesser and frequently unexpected expenses that were the drain; the carelessness in turning off lights the last month had resulted in an astronomical light bill.

Each face was intent as John, without mentioning names, told about the pair of galoshes that had been lost and had to be replaced, the leather jacket left out in the rain and ruined, the new pair of shoes that needed resoling before they were paid for because a foot had been used instead of a brake on a bicycle.

on my ancient but honorable washer, and went to start lunch.

I'll never know what happened, but when a little later I opened the washing machine door, John's robe simply wasn't there. I let out a startled cry that Libby, home with a cold, came running. "I must be losing things," I babbled. "Daddy's bathrobe. I put it in."

Libby dropped to her knees, peered up inside. "Something's up there," Libby said. "But it's not Daddy's robe. It's little. With that she brought forth from the maw of the machine a miniature bathrobe, the exact counterpart of John's in every way except size. From rolled collar to hem it wasn't more than three feet long.

I'm afraid I cried a little. Then I got dressed and went to town to buy John another robe—which cost a good deal more than the children have saved all this week.

John says he likes it every bit as well as his old one. Perhaps. But there's a wistful look in his eyes these cold winter nights as he watches Sally, who seems to be the only winner, marching proudly around the house.

"Libby wears his shirts, but I wear his robe," she tells everyone who will listen. Fondly, she smooths its matting sides. "It's the very first thing I've ever had of Daddy's."

Your Problems

'Motherly' Sister Deals With Care and Feeding of Brother, 37

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: My older brother waited until he was 37 to marry. Then he selected a college graduate with a master's degree, but she doesn't know enough not to put a wet rag on a mahogany table.

It breaks my heart to see the way my brother lives. His wife boils the life out of everything, blue and white checked bathrobe, I had my idea. I'd washed and steam pressed my own old pink flannel robe a dozen times. Why not cut-out doll, clothes to color. Send 25 cents for this book.

Then just the other morning, when I had my hand on the telephone to call the dry cleaners to pick up John's blue and white checked bathrobe, I had my idea. I'd washed and steam pressed my own old pink flannel robe a dozen times. Why not cut-out doll, clothes to color. Send 25 cents for this book.

Si! I tell her—in a nice way, of course—a few of the secrets of homemaking? My brother never utters a word of complaint. He's so in love he's semi-conscious. All the same, his bride needs help—JADA.

Dear Jada: Say nothing. If your brother is satisfied, what do you care if he wears a shirt for a month? Perhaps when the newness of the marriage wears off he'll become less starchy-eyed and his vision will improve.

An "offer to help" could be interpreted as interference. You might even find yourself persona non grata—which means plenty unwelcome, as the girl with the master's degree will explain.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently, you made the statement that leprosy is one of the LEAST contagious of all diseases.

My teacher says you are wrong. She told us about Father Damien who caught leprosy when he visited a Leper Colony then stayed with the lepers the rest of his life.

The teacher says she hopes you will be big enough to print this letter and admit your mistake because you are giving people the wrong impression.

Dear A and J: It is your teacher who is wrong. I hope SHE will be big enough to read this letter in class, because she is giving people the wrong impression.

All medical authorities who have studied leprosy (Hansen's disease) agree that it is not easily transmitted. The record at the Leprosarium in Carville, Louisiana, bears this out. In over 60 years, since the colony was founded, not a single doctor or nurse has become infected.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hopkins, Ogdensburg, will observe their 61st wedding anniversary Wednesday. Mr. Hopkins was the first rural mail carrier for Ogdensburg.

Cecil Hopkins Mark 61st Date of Marriage

BY JOHN WELLS

A short honeymoon may be the answer to a long and happy marriage, if the case of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hopkins, Ogdensburg, who are celebrating their 61st wedding anniversary Wednesday, is an example.

It was Feb. 11, 1898, when the twosome left their hometown of Ogdensburg on the 3 p.m. evening train to Amherst. Upon arrival they were married and returned home in the following day.

Why such a short honeymoon? They both had to be back to work the following day. Mr. Hopkins was employed by the Camel's Shingle mill, earning $17 per month and his wife was a school marm at the Maple Ridge school, now closed, south of Ogdensburg.

During their 61 years of marriage, the Hopkinses raised three sons, Wayne, Ogdensburg, Clair, San Francisco, and Ralph, Los Angeles. They also have six grandchildren.

Hopkins holds the honor of being the first rural mail carrier in the Ogdensburg area. Back in 1903 he secured enough signatures to begin delivering mail with a team of horses. He says his pay was $50 per month. Since it was just barely enough to keep the horses, he sold the route three years later.

After working in stores in Ogdensburg, Iron River and Farish, the Hopkinses returned to the hometown where they operated a potato ware house. They also farmed for 16 years in the Manawa and Royaton area before retiring to their Ogdensburg home.

Mrs. Hopkins recalls that juvenile delinquency just "wasn't" in the old days and 81 and her husband three years older. In testimony of a saving of many lives now being wasted. Although she says progress has done wonderful things, she believes

Outagamie Deanery To be Saluted During Sacred Heart Program

Outagamie Deanery of the Green Bay Diocesan council of the Catholic women will be the second deanery to be saluted on the Sacred Heart television program at 11 a.m. Sunday on Channel 2. The deanery will be honored during the one-minute period allotted for local use on WBAY-TV.

Last spring the Outagamie Deanery sponsored the movie, "The Song of Bernadette," to help finance the program. Each of the 13 deaneries making up the diocesan council will be saluted during the coming months in the weekly one-minute period.

The topic for the talk on Sunday's program will be "Prayer Doesn't Work." The speaker will be the Rev. James T. Dolan, S.J., recently appointed a chaplain in the army and formerly an instructor at Brooklyn Preparatory school. He has done extensive work with youth in the New York area and has coached several winners in American Legion oratorical competitions.

Feb. 15 will be devoted to the Catholic Press with the theme for the minute centering on the Green Bay Register. Feb. 22 will be the salute to the Calumet County Deanery.

The Sacred Heart TV program is sponsored by the Green Bay Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, with each deanery setting up its own plan for the promotion of the program. One of the promotional projects is the erection of full sized highway billboards, one for each deanery. The Outagamie Deanery has made plans for the erection of

Jan. 18 Crash Injury Kills Appleton Man

Robert C. Perry Passenger in Car That Slid Into Tree

Robert C. Perry, 42, 931 W. Frances street, died about 12:55 p.m. Friday at Appleton Memorial hospital of an injury received in a Dodge county automobile crash Jan. 18.

Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said a post mortem established that a large blood clot on the lungs caused death.

Perry was a passenger in a car when it went out of control on a Highway 151 curve a mile south of Waupun and slammed into a tree.

Driver of the car, Ara O. Call, 49, 911 E. Hancock st., told Kemps he and Perry were returning from a Mormon meeting in Madison.

Curve Slipped
It was a Sunday night and snowing but the road was clear in the straight stretch of Call's car when he started to take the curve.

The curve Call said proved to be slippery and the car skidded, going out of control through a ditch into the tree.

Both men were taken to Waupun Memorial hospital. Perry was reported with a deep head cut, six broken ribs, bruised legs and a back injury. Call had four fractured ribs.

Call was released from the hospital after nine days and Perry was transferred to Appleton Memorial about a week ago.

Perry, operator of R. C. Perry Construction company, a mason contracting firm, was born Aug. 11, 1916 in Elton. He lived in Appleton 11 years.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Monday at the Wichmann Funeral home, Superior at Franklin street, with M. R. Lambert, president of the congregation of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon), in charge. Burial will be in the Bent Cemetery, Bryant.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Sunday.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Miss Dawn, and a son, Ronald, both at home; one brother, Lloyd, Milwaukee; a sister, Mrs. David Lewis, Hoopston, Ill., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Perry, White Lake.

Madison Police Chief May Face 5 Charges

Madison — A special investigating committee that probed an automobile collision in which Police Chief Bruce Weatherly was injured Jan. 5 has recommended that he be named in five charges.

The committee, made up of aldermen, said Friday the charges should be that he charged intoxicating beverages as drunk while operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated; used a city car for unofficial purposes; suppressed evidence and conducted himself in a manner unbecoming a police officer and detrimental to the service.

The committee sent its recommendations to the fire and police commission which hired Weatherly and has power to dismiss him.

Sensitive Response State Income Tax Multiplies Yield More Than Any Other Revenue

Madison — As the 1959 legislature considers whether to raise the income taxpayer again to provide the rising money demands of state and local government services, the annual report of the state department of taxation provides a handbook on the spectacular expansion of the state income tax system in recent years.

The income tax responds sensitively to fluctuations in the economy. No other Wisconsin basic revenue source has multiplied its yield so dramatically under the impact of the expanding economy and inflation.

As thousands of Wisconsin income taxpayers, individual and private, were boosted into higher dollar income brackets during the last decade, the tax yields exploded upward correspondingly.

A decade ago, to illustrate, the total income tax collections of the state amounted to just under $77,000,000, which was a record yield until that time.

But last year they had risen to more than $168,000,000, and the record shows an uninterrupted annual boost since the days of the late 1930's. The World War II defense period and World War II brought the first big spurt in yields, which has not been halted since that time.

The steady increases have come with some actual reduction in the rates. There is an individual income surtax rate today of 20 per cent. In earlier times the surtax was as high as 60 per cent. The increases were accounted for in part because of inflationary wage and salary rises. The income tax is graduated, and as wages and salaries rise, the tax rates applied are higher.

Payments Rise
Individual income tax payments have risen in proportion to the total of individual and corporation taxes paid Sunday over the years. Last year corporation income tax payers' payments amounted to slightly more than half of the total of individual taxpayers.

The annual report of Tax Commissioner Harry Harder also shows the effect of some of the minor and little noticed legislative changes in the income tax of recent years.

Several years ago the legislature repealed the provision for a cash payment discount and added a 2 per cent penalty for those taxpayers who choose to pay their tax liability in two installments.

Last year the 2 per cent penalty brought more than $2,500,000 in additional income to the state treasury, suggesting that a large proportion of the taxpayers, individual and corporate, are using the installment privilege.

Teachers Retirement
The legislature several years ago consolidated the old teachers' retirement surtax with the normal rate. Last year the share of normal receipts credited to teachers' pensions amounted to nearly $15,000,000. The money is used to match teacher contributions into the state retirement fund. The state also pays the employer's share of the social security tax, for those teachers who are covered by the old age and survivors' insurance program of the national government.

The proceeds of the normal income tax rates are shared by local governments after a number of deductions. The receipts of the surtax are retained by the state.

Last year the normal tax distribution included nearly $33,000,000 to the state treasury, slightly more than $60,000,000 to towns, cities and villages, and about $12,000,000 to the counties.

The state's collection machinery has been enlarged considerably in recent years but the collection of additional assessments and delinquent taxes is a comparatively small part of the gross income. Last year the state collected about $7,000,000 beyond the self-assessed payments of taxpayers.

several weeks. She was born May 23, 1874 in Oconto and had lived in Menasha the last 20 years.

Funeral services will be held at 9:15 a.m. Tuesday at St. Mary Catholic church with burial in Oak Hill cemetery.

Friends may call at the Westgor Funeral home after 2 p.m. Sunday and the rosary will be recited there at 8 p.m. Monday.

Sister Mary Albertine

The former Pauline Payr, she had been in ill health for about a year. She died in Fond du Lac, Wis., March 30, 1959. She was a former Appleton resident before entering the convent.

Survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Louise Lang, 327 E. Washington street, and Mrs. James Kegl, Milwaukee.

Cartier Services
Funeral services for Mrs. Maurice E. Cartier, 62, 1615 W. Reid drive, who was found dead Friday morning will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Mary Catholic church. Burial will be in Memorial Park. # Burglars Get $298 in Cash At Feed Mill

Iola Office Entered Early This Morning; Rifle Iron Safe

Iola — Burglars stole $298.47 from the Iola Cooperative feed mill some time this morning. A watch valued at about $35, which was to be awarded in a feed contest, also was taken.

Sheriff Ray Abrahamson said entry was made through a rear door, opened when the burglars broke the window beside it and reached inside.

An iron safe was opened when the dial knob was knocked off. A rare 1800 dollar bill was untouched, as were a considerable number of checks.

Discovered at 7 a.m. Myron Johnson, manager, discovered the theft when he opened the office about 7 a.m. today. He said the cash represented the Friday receipts.

County Traffic Patrolman Louis Adams placed the time of the burglary after 12:30 a.m. today. He said he noticed nothing unusual when he passed the office at that time while on patrol.

Sheriff Abrahamson, Adams and Sheriff's Sgt. Harry Holly are investigating the theft.

Tipsy Driver Fined $100

John J. Lesinski Hits Cemetery Ditch, Loses Right to Drive

John J. Lesinski, 30, route 1, Waupaca, pleaded guilty of drunken driving and was fined $100 when he appeared before Waupaca Justice George Whalen.

Lesinski was arrested Sunday by Waupaca police after he drove his car into a ditch on County Trunk 'K' near the Waupaca cemetery. He pleaded innocent during arraignment Monday, but changed his plea Thursday.

He tested .22 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication. His driver's license will be revoked for a year.

Seymour Man Hurt in Crash

Anton Loritz, 46, 246 Pearl street, Seymour, was injured in a 2-car collision on Highway 54 a mile east of Seymour about 8:30 p.m. Friday.

He was taken to a Seymour physician by the Seymour police department with facial lacerations and a bruised leg. Loritz, county police said, was the driver of a car which struck another driven by Donald Decker, 44, route 1, Seymour, from the rear. Both were driving west on 54.

Castro Asks Cubans To Avoid Walkouts

Havana — Fidel Castro today appealed to Cuban workers to refrain from striking and help the revolutionary government put the country on its feet economically.

The military hero pledged that the regime would not outlaw the right to strike but asked the workers to be patient in their own interests.

Car Found in Ditch, Driver Unconscious

Fremont — The Waupaca county traffic patrol found Elton Banke, route 1, Fremont, unconscious in his car in a ditch off Highway 10 about a mile southwest of Readfield about 9 p.m. Friday.

He was alone in the car and apparently had lost control of the vehicle. He received a possible brain concussion and was taken to New London Community hospital.

The changes:
1. The union president, David McDonald, has had the unusual problem of dissension in the ranks. He was able to quell the revolt against his leadership but will be under pressure to satisfy union members with big contract gains.

2. Many of management's big guns of 1956 are gone or relatively inactive. For example, John A. Stephens who dealt with the union as executive vice president of U. S. Steel, has been replaced by R. Conrad Cooper. Observers are uncertain how this will affect bargaining.

No definite demands have come yet from the union. But a request for a 50-cent package is expected. At present, according to the labor department, steelworkers average $3 an hour.

Fair Weather Is Expected tonight east of the Mississippi except for snow flurries in the upper Mississippi valley and upper Lakes region. Snow or flurries are forecast for the northern states from the Dakotas to the Pacific. It will be warmer in the Atlantic states, Mississippi valley and deep south and colder west of the Mississippi except in the far Southwest.

Weather Stable in Fox Cities

Stable was the word for the weather today as warm air gushed into the state to raise the mercury nearly out of the freezing area. However, the weatherman sees more snow and cold in the near future.

The stability of the weather Friday is demonstrated by the fact the high was 13 above and the low overnight was only a degree lower. The wind this morning was an almost non-existent 2 miles an hour out of the east.

The relief from snow helped clear up the roads in the state and the traffic patrol reported all but a few roads in good driving condition.

The weatherman's sport outlook, however indicates the plows and graders will be out in force over the weekend as a weak low pressure area moving out of the west is bringing snow tonight and possibly through Sunday.

The northern tier of states was experiencing some of the snow today. However, the big news was the dramatic rise of temperatures.

The Fox Cities jumped from its 12 above low to a 25 reading by 10 a.m.

Omaha reported an early 36 just 22 degrees warmer than the reading at the corresponding time Friday. Cedar Rapids, Iowa, had a 29 degree reading, a 20-point jump in the 24 hours.

Bloody Trek To Empire

BY RICHARD L. NEUBERGER

Oregon commemorates in 1959 the 100th anniversary of its admission as a state of the Union. Oregon contains the country's greatest reserve of standing timber and produces far more lumber than any other state. Oregon was first in the nation to provide for election of United States senators by popular vote, and it pioneered in introducing to the New World such governmental reforms as the initiative, referendum, and recall.

Yet the earliest attempt of white men to found a permanent settlement on this frontier of majestic solitudes and swift rivers was attended by death, destruction, and massacre. Lives and dollars were strewn recklessly across a vast expanse of the globe. The founder of one of America's great fortunes was dealt a stunning financial setback, and the U. S. Navy suffered a blow to pride and prestige which was not forgotten for decades.

And yet, despite all the suffering and agony and failure, no other thrust westward was so important to American sovereignty over the immense Columbia River basin. The undertaking proved to be the anchoring claim to Oregon.

It all started bravely enough as the bark Tonquin sailed from New York Harbor in the late summer of 1810.

Astor Charges in

With the Tonquin went the hopes of the new nation along the Atlantic seaboard. Lewis and Clark had returned from the western solitudes only four years before. Their startling reports of limitless forests and prairie had been avidly read, but behind them the valiant explorers left no outpost symbolizing American rights to the region. Now the spectacularly successful German-born merchant, John Jacob Astor, had organized the Pacific Fur company to build a settlement at the mouth of the legendary Columbia river.

This would be the first American colony on the shores of the Pacific ocean, and Astor had no doubt it would be the beginning of a fabulous empire. Astor owned half the 100 shares of stock in the company, and guaranteed its expenses up to $400,000. One of his principal partners, Alexander McKay, sailed in the Tonquin. Another, a gentle and pious New Jersey-born businessman named Wilson Price Hunt, was to lead an expedition overland across the continent to occupy the fort which the Tonquin's passengers and crew would erect.

Aided by U. S. -

The enterprise had the full blessing of the American government. On orders of President Madison himself, the navy furloughed Lieut. Jonathan Thorn to take command of the Tonquin. Thorn had been cited by Stephen Decatur for gallantry under fire at Tripoli. But he had a jaw of granite and a stubborn arrogance, and he tried to bring to a trading vessel the discipline of a warship. The Tonquin had barely sailed over the horizon when those aboard learned what manner of man their captain was. Thorn ordered all lights doused by 8 o'clock; he cursed the crew for chanting a ditty and told McKay he considered him "the most worthless human who ever broke a sea biscuit" because he demurred at some of the ship's fare.

"I fear we are in the hands of a maniac," McKay wrote that night in his journal by the flicker of a candle lit surreptitiously beside his bunk.

Cast Upon the Waters

This fear was confirmed when the Tonquin replenished its supply of fresh water at the bleak Falkland Islands, off the coast of South America. Five of McKay's business associates were a few minutes late getting back to the beach; so Thorn lifted anchor without them. The five, sure they were to be left behind to perish as castaways, rowed frantically after the Tonquin for three hours. Later Thorn wrote Astor that only the opportune waning of the wind, which left the Tonquin becalmed, enabled the five wretched men to overtake the bark. This experience terrified all on board.

At last, on March 22, 1811, half a year after clearing New York, this cargo of tensions and rivalries stood off the Columbia's surging mouth.

River Men in Crew

Thorn commanded Ebenezer Fox, the first mate, to put out in a whale boat to find the passage into the river. The captain arbitrarily ordered him to man the boat with French-Canadian voyageurs instead of with sailors from the crew. The voyageurs had been brought along to paddle canoes on by any tribe. Salish warriors would possess guns without number. They would rule all the tribes of the north. But in the bowels of the Tonquin one desperately wounded white man still lived. Long afterward, the remnant of the Tonquin's company, left behind at Astoria, decided from vague descriptions that this man was James Lewis, the ship's quiet and inconspicuous clerk.

Suddenly, with a dreadful shiver, the 290-ton Tonquin blew up. The clerk, in a final sacrificial act, had fired the magazine. The explosion was deafening. A great column of smoke rose above the bay. A few fragments of timber, floating in the red-stained water, were mute reminders of a millionaire's dream of empire and an Indian tribe's plot for conquest.

Ship Blows Up

At dawn the Indians raced up the sides of the Tonquin. In an hour the ship was covered with them crowded shoulder to shoulder, snatching booty from each other's hands.

Months passed and the isolated settlement at Astoria heard no word of the ship on which they depended for supplies. McKay's interpreter, an Indian named Kasiascall, had survived the massacre. Eventually, it was he who brought the news of what had befallen Mr. Astor's proud bark.

The Astorians realized they were a solitary outpost in a vast wilderness, many miles from other white men. Of the Tonquin's original company of 53 men, 37 were dead. Gone, too, were most of the goods and supplies,

Disaster by Land

But it was a question who needed help the more — the beleaguered men at Astoria or the starving ragamuffins of the overland expedition, chewing on the soles of their moccasins in the 6,000-foot abyss of the Snake River. One by one, however, in January and February, 1812, the members of the overland party tottered into the log outpost at Astoria. They had endured incredible hardships; some were so emaciated their friends could not recognize them. Now the remnants of the two shattered expeditions struggled to salvage something from their disasters on land and sea. Astor, learning of the loss of the Tonquin a year after its destruction, had not been dismayed. "Would you have me weep for what I cannot help?" he thundered to a friend. The Navy Department had been more stunned than the owner of the lost vessel. It could not believe

Blood Bank Fails To Reach Quota

Donors Contribute 207 Pints In Bloodmobile's 2-Day Visit

Menasha — The Neenah-Menasha blood bank fell 33 pints short of its quota for the first bloodmobile visit of the year Thursday and Friday at the First Congregational church.

Residents contributed 131 pints on Thursday and there were 76 donors on Friday. The goal was 240 pints for the two days.

Colds and illness were partly responsible for keeping donors away, officials stated, but many people with appointments to give blood failed to keep them.

The blood bank program is made possible by residents making periodic visits to the bloodmobile to give donations and without citizens as donors, the present program of making blood available without cost to any Twin City resident would be impossible, officials emphasized.

Several veteran donors visited the bloodmobile this week including 10 who completed their first gallon and three who have given two gallons.

Two gallon donors are Melvin Rausch, the Rev. K. Aart Van Dam and David Wicklund. Completing their first gallons were Earl Zachow, John Asmus, Robert Engdahl,

Zephyrs Risk 12-Game Chain Against Strong Pacelli High

Pointers Hold No. 3 Rating In Big 8; Post 12-2 Record

Menasha — St. Mary's winning chain, which now has 12 links, will be in for another rigid test at 2:15 Sunday afternoon in a non-conference game at Stevens Point Pacelli.

The Zephyrs are confronted by no easy task since the Pointers have a winning string of their own — six games — and what's more they are unbeaten at home. Pacelli's overall record is 12-2 and it currently is ranked No. 3 in the Big Eight section of the state Catholic high school ratings. St. Mary is rated No. 1 in the Little Eight, schools whose enrollment total 300 or fewer boys.

One of the Cardinals' two losses was dealt by St. Mary 64-41 at the Zephyr gym last Dec. 6. The other was at Prairie du Chien Catholic 60-52 and they reversed that score.

Own 60-45 Lead

In the game against St. Mary, the Zephyrs had a 24-41 advantage at the end of three frames and they owned a 60-45 lead early in the final period. Pacelli closed with a rush to cut the final margin down to five points.

Gary Batley led the Menashians with 26 points. Dean Schreiner and Jim Rueck each had 12. Don Opola chalked up 10 for the visitors.

St. John's upset win over Fond du Lac Springs Thursday night gave the Zephyrs a little more breathing room in their Fox Valley Catholic conference race.

Zephyrs Jayvees Seek Eighth Win At Stevens Point

The Zephyrs, who defeated Little Chute St. John in their last outing, turned back Pacelli 39-16 here in their Dec. 6 meeting. Jim Koerner had 12 points for the Zephyrs and Ryskowski collected 10 for the Pointers.

St. Mary currently has a 4-3 record in Fox Valley Catholic conference play while outside the circuit, in addition to Pacelli, it has wins over Milwaukee St. Benedict and Wausau Newman and a loss to Wayland academy.

Menasha — The Menasha Macs meet New Holstein at 7:30 tonight at Chilton in their semi-final game in the Eastern Wisconsin Amateur league tournament.

The Menashians trimmed Denmark in their initial tourney start. A victory tonight would put them in the finals against the winner of the Kiel-Valders game. A loss would place them in a battle for third place. The finals are scheduled Sunday night.

The Macs, who now have an overall 23-3 record, hold and if they survive that test, probably will be forced to play down Sprague to earn a berth in the state tournament.

Tonight's Games: Green Bay at Menasha. Marinette at Wausau. Sheboygan at Racine. Manitowish at Kenosha.

Menasha — Menasha Extension entertains Green Bay at 7 o'clock tonight at the Menasha High school gym as it goes in quest of its third win.

The Trotters turned back Manitowish 66-63 Thursday night in their most recent start. Their two victories have come over the Shipbuilders.

Green Bay is situated in a tie for sixth place with Menasha, both with 2-7 records. It bowed to Marinette 80-74 last week in its last start. The Bays' leading scorer is Merrill Millhiser, who ranks fifth in the league with 131 markers.

The Bays turned back Menasha 64-52 in their Nov. 22 meeting at the Packer city. Millhiser scored 13 points to pace the winners and Jim Hanson had 23 for Menasha.

The Menasha - Green Bay encounter is one of four league tests tonight. The feature game sends third place Sheboygan to first place Racine.

Tire Blows, Car Goes Into Ditch

Oshkosh — Lyle A. Kromberg, 24, route 2, Neenah, was uninjured but his car was extensively damaged in an accident on Clayton avenue in the town of Clayton at 10:37 a.m. Friday. A tire blew out and he lost control of the car which traveled 72 feet through heavy snow drifts and struck a tree.

Oshkosh Cagers Enter Semis of Class A Section

ST. JOHN TOURNAMENT (Class A) Tonight's Game: 7:15—Trenton vs. Green Bay Reliance. 7:30—St. John vs. Oshkosh Westside.

Sunday's Game: 2:30—Third Place Game. 8:15—Championship Game.

Menasha — Wertsch Motors of Oshkosh entered semi-final play in Class A of the St. John Athletic association tournament by defeating Club Terrace of Appleton 55-50 Friday night at the St. John gym.

Wertsch's will meet St. John at 8:30 tonight in a semi-final test while Hewitt's and Reliance Printers of Green Bay collide at 7:15. The losers play for third place at 2:30 p.m. Sunday and the winners collide for the championship at 8:15 p.m.

The Oshkosh cagers led Club Terrace 14-12 at the close of one quarter and advanced their lead to 27-21 at halftime. Their margin was trimmed to 38-36 at the close of three quarters.

Jack Goedjen and Dick Butt paced a balanced scoring attack for Wertsch's with 13 points apiece. Butt is one of the boys who was dropped from this year's Oshkosh High school squad and then declared ineligible when reinstated because he had played amateur league games.

Tom Grishaber and Jim Maahs each had 17 points for Club Terrace.

Menominee Termination Plan Outlined for Economics Club

Menasha — The Menominee Indians' trend toward termination of federal government supervision was outlined Friday afternoon by the Keshena Indian reservation superintendent. Melvin Robertson told Economics club members that the Menominee tribe's termination plan is probably as good as any that could be devised. The plan calls for establishing a corporation known as Menominee Enterprises to be owned by the tribe and run by a board of directors comprised of four Menominees and five non-Indian directors. Equal shares will be held by members of the tribal roll with provision made that the corporation would have the option to buy stock of any Menominee wishing to dis- pose of his share at the end of five years, explained Robertson. Provisions have been made for a trust company to handle assets of minors and mentally incompetent tribal members.

New County The plan has been submitted to the secretary of interior for approval, he said. In March, tribal representatives will meet with Wisconsin legislators to discuss the establishment of a new county in Wisconsin. the reservation area. Robertson said the tribe proposes to run the county with only one set of officers, omitting township officers in order to retain much of their present government. He explained that the new county would attempt to draw up contracts with adjoining counties for the services of some administrators such as district attorney, judge and health officers, since there is a lack of professional people within the Indian community. Congress never did anything definite "to get out of the Indian business" until 1953, said the superintendent, explaining the law which made Indians subject to the same laws, granted them the same privileges and benefits and called for them to assume the same responsibilities as other citizens. The Menominee tribe was one of several tribes at that time recommended for independence from the federal government.

Robertson listed the isolation of the reservation physically, morally, socially and spiritually from the remainder of the country and the fostered feeling of dependence on the government as bad effects of long term reservations. "The people develop a feeling of inferiority and discrimination," he said. "The Indians have been led to believe the government forever will take care of them."

No Settlement The Indian situation is one of the most misunderstood and complicated domestic issues this country has, he said. "Over 6,000 special laws have been enacted by Congress dealing with Indian affairs." After 150 years of conscientious work, there still is no settlement of the problem, he pointed out. He listed the two basic responsibilities of the government to Indians as protection of their property and providing the general services called for in treaties, which are the same type of services non-Indians receive from the government. He called the Menominee tribe one of the most advanced in the nation. Their education attainments through the high school level compare equally with those "of people on the outside," he said. The Indian real estate is held in trust for them by the United States. The Indians are entitled to the earnings from that real estate and the use of the property, but cannot sell it, he explained. The government doesn't exercise much control over the Indian as an individual, as it once did, he said. Liquor laws have now been changed so that Indians receive the same treatment under the law as any other citizen outside of the reservation, said Robertson. Many people are critical of the Indians because they don't pay taxes on this property, said Robertson. The property was listed as non-taxable in the original agreement on services, he explained. Indians must pay taxes on property they hold outside of the reservation as any other citizen, he said.

Early History The early history of the nation's treatment of the Indians isn't anything we can —

Words often misused: The expression "wait on" in the sense of "wait for" is colloquial. Say, "We must wait FOR (not wait on) the other persons."

Often mispronounced: Abyss Pronounce a-biss with accent on second syllable.

Often misspelled: Foment (to be agitated) Foment (to encourage)

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: nonentity a person or thing of little or no account. It is a nonentity so far as disturbing our purpose is concerned.

ONION NECKLACE

Wearing an onion around the neck used to be fashionable — at least for cold sufferers.

It is easy to see why this old time cold remedy has now been discarded. We can't cure colds, yet, but we can relieve the discomforts and avoid more serious complications by using the effective medications available today.

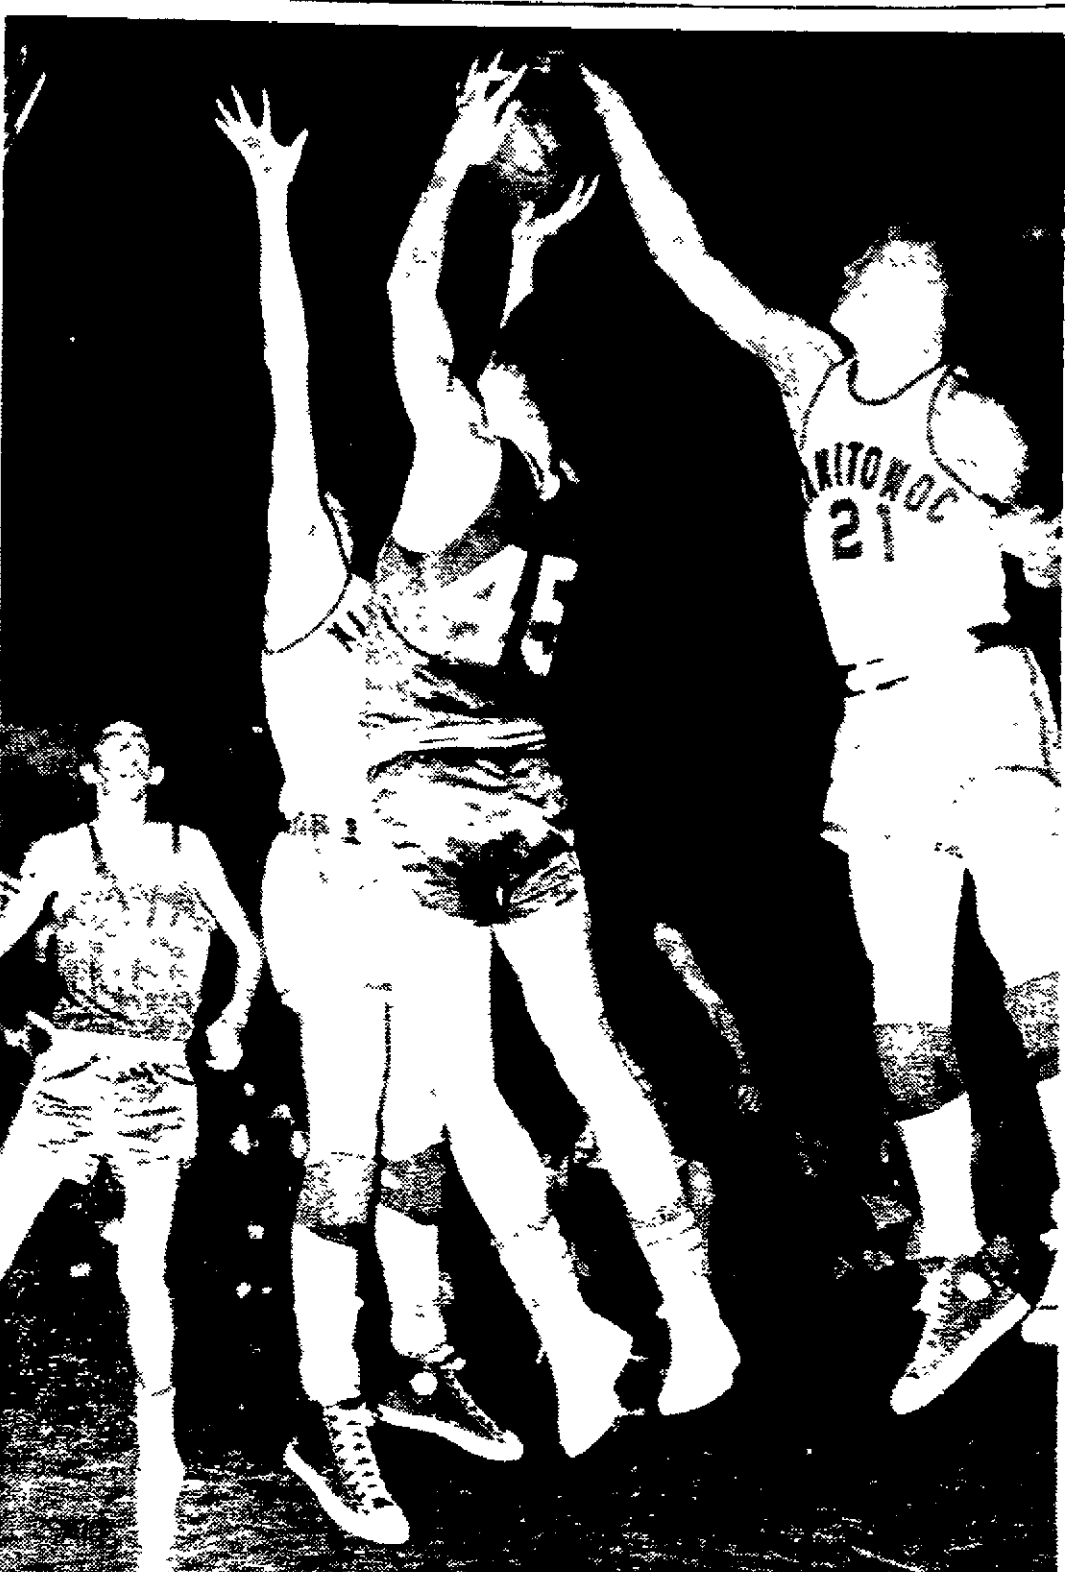

But don't use ANY medicines indiscriminately. When you're ill be sensible. Let your physician do the diagnosing and prescribing.

Then, if he recommends medication, see us for quality prescriptions.

Manitowoc Rocks Terrors, Takes Solo FRVC Lead

This Shot From Friday night's Appleton High-Manitowoc game on the Shipbuilders' court is a perfect example of good basketball defense. The Terrors' John Nussbaum (45) is being guarded from the front by an unidentified Manty cager and from the rear by "Bucky" LeClair, who is blocking the shot. Appleton's No. 53 is Marty Schultz. Manty won, 70-58, to take the solo FRVC lead.

Manitowoc — Hall, LeClair and Meany. What "Tinker to Evers to Chance" meant to National league baseball rivals of the Chicago Cubs in the early 1900s, the modern-day triumvirate of Dick Hall, "Bucky" LeClair and Paul Meany means to 1958-9 Manitowoc High basketball opponents. Rams' Sid Gillman Praises Lombardi

Duncan to Decide On Grid Future Within A Week

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — Sports folks around the country have been extremely kind in praising the Packers and Vince Lombardi for joining forces. It's certainly wonderful and gratifying. Latest to back the Bays' pick is Sid Gillman, coach of the Los Angeles Rams. Sid, who knows Lombardi well, commented thusly for Braven Dyer in the LA Times: "Vince is an absolutely top coach and will do a really fine job for Green Bay. When I was line coach at West Point, we tried to hire Vince. But he got away. That was about 10 years ago. Lombardi later joined Army as offensive backfield coach and stayed five years. Don't Worry. "Don't worry about the material at Green Bay. A lot of people think it's thin but it isn't. Their draft the past few years has been the best. Their ends are as good as any in the league and their quarterbacks are quite adequate. I know Lombardi will make good as head coach." Dyer recalled getting a call from an old Fordham booster.

Kavanaugh Steger strictly a team effort as Lee Weyenberg and Ken Kavanaugh paced the scoring attack with 20 points each while Gary Vanucenhoven displayed good floor leadership and was the steady influence on the team. Myron Zachowski and Jim Steger garnered a lions' share of the rebounds for the winners and chipped in with timely points when the Rockets threatened to take command. Early Lead Kaukauna turned off to a lead within the first two minutes of play and continued to maintain the edge throughout the period. At one point in the quarter the winners held a 13-5 advantage and it looked as though the game would be easy but Neenah rallied in the closing two minutes to cut the first period edge to 13-10. The Rockets came out with a vengeance in the second period and tied the count at 14-all. The two teams then managed

Warriors Seek 15th Straight Win Tonight

Chicago — Coach Eddie Hickey of Marquette is counting heavily on his ace rebounder Walt Mangham to help run the Warriors string of victories to 15 when they meet Loyola here tonight.

"He's the only one I've ever seen who can stop a jump shot," said Hickey. "We are going to have to stop a lot of them."

"I am prepared to see anything. They are liable to play a real cozy type of game and hold the ball for the good shot as long as possible."

"We'll have to take away the good shot and not give them chances for following up."

Marquette and the Ramblers meet in the first game of a double header with Wheaton and Southern Illinois playing the windup at the Chicago stadium.

The Warriors won the first game between the two at Milwaukee Jan. 5. Loyola led that game at one stage but faded out as their only big man, Clarence Red, 6-6, fouled out.

The loss was just the third of the season in 19 starts for St. Mary's.

Manitowoc — Paced by John Manier's 23 points, the unpredictable Appleton High school junior varsity basketball team jolted Manitowoc with a 60-42 upset here Friday night.

In reversing an earlier loss to the Shipbuilders the Terror jayvees were a smooth, solid rebounding aggregation.

The hosts were in front, 11-10, at the end of the first quarter but Appleton counted the first four points of the second period and never again trailed.

Manier hit 14 points in the middle two stanzas as AHS outscored Manty, 34-15, in that stretch. Unofficially, he scored on 10 of 11 field goal attempts for the night.

Pete Trieber was second high for the winners with 13. Tom Rathasack coined 13 for the losers.

Ortega Beats Rudell Stich

Mexican Finally Is Winner of Split Decision

New York — The "Unlucky Indian" finally got lucky. Gaspar Ortega of Mexico, consistently a loser of split decisions, scraped home a win over Rudell Stich, though he almost was scalped.

Brillion scored the first field goal of its game, but Stich early in the third round Friday night opened a gash over Ortega's left eye.

For a time, it seemed it might be bad enough to stop the fight.

Just Hit Him Stich in the Madison Square garden dressing room after the 10-round match. "I came up and just happened to hit him."

Stich, a Louisville welter who was making his Garden debut, admitted the bout was close but thought he should have been given the decision.

The officials were divided. Judge Frank Forbes saw it 6-4 for Ortega, Judge Tony Castellano scored it 5-4-1 for Stich. Referee Al Berli had it even in rounds at 5-5 but gave Ortega his vote on points 7-6.

Points are used in New York only when round scores are even.
